JUST Style

About just-style.me

Just-style.me offers a wide range of professional stylist services for private customers, companies and events across Europe. But just-style.me is more than just a company, it represents my passion for fashion and comes together in a high quality portfolio of services that combine modern digital media and technologies with personal and individual consulting.

About me

I am Julia Fleck-Glass, professional Stylist and the founder and CEO of just-style.me. As long as I can remember, I have always loved fashion, styling and everything related to it. There was no option other than turning my passion into a profession and so some years ago I decided to start my fashion career. During my career at one of the biggest European fashion retailers, I worked in various positions, each with different responsibilities. These responsibilities included the organisation of fashion events, photo shoots, cooperations with market leading fashion magazines like Cosmopolitan France and much more. My professional developement, experience and especially my love for what I do were the reasons why I decided to found just-style.me.
